Care Instructions – Flat Sheets

Thank you for purchasing one of our flat sheets. Below are some guidelines on how we suggest you use your flat sheet during and at the end of the cricket season.

Your flat sheet should be treated with great respect to avoid any accidental damage. The most common form of damage is from the studs of cricket boots and it is vital that every effort is made to reduce this possibility of damage.

Use During The Season

We suggest that you don't pack the flat sheet away when wet, in order to prolong the life of your flat sheet. When you have finished with the flat sheet for the day we would suggest that you wrap it up carefully and store it in a dry location.

Do's & Don'ts When Using The Cover

- Always use the grab handles to pull the flat sheet on and off.
- Never use a tractor to pull the flat sheet as this will cause undue stress on the sheet.
- Always peg the flat sheet down, we suggest that you peg every eyelet.
- The flat sheet should also be weighed down using sand bags preferably in between each eyelet if you are in a windy location or are expecting bad weather.
- Never walk on the sheet with cricket studs. Flat soled shoes are fine but please check they don't have stones in the treads.
- Always take due care and attention when pulling the sheet off. Try to keep it low to the ground when pulling off as it may act like a "sail" in the wind.

End of Season

After your last game of the season, or when the flat sheet is no longer required, we would suggest that you brush off any debris that may be on the sheet and wipe it over with a mop in order to have it clean for the next season. This will help to prolong the life of the flat sheet and is essential to get the best out of your flat sheet for the following season.

Once you have cleaned and dried the flat sheet it should be ideally placed in a storage bag. You must ensure that your flat sheet is dry before storing it away for the winter. We would also suggest that you store the sheet above ground level to reduce the risk of rodents getting into the storage bag and causing damage to the flat sheet.

Care, Maintenance & Storage

At all times the flat sheet should be treated with respect. It should not come into contact with player's studs, concrete or stones. These items could cause tears/damage to the cover.

If accidental damage has occurred, a repair kit may be purchased from us. small repairs can be made by you on site. We would suggest that any larger rips/tears are repaired at our Factory.

For more information on our flat sheets or repairs to your current flat sheet please contact us.
